Can I use a calculated field to return a date that is one week after the enrollment date?

No. Calculations can only display numbers.

However, there is an external module that may be used to perform calculations of date fields. External Modules (EM) are individual packages of software that can extend REDCap's functionality, behavior, and appearance in creative ways. Modules are not developed by Vanderbilt, but by members of the consortium, which are then curated and released through the Vanderbilt repository.
